VOLUME III—NUMBER 71

PRESIDENT DOWN SOUTH

Speeches in Alabama and in Georgia.

SPEECH TO COLORED STUDENTS

An Appeal to Many All Past Differences.

AT THE ATLANTA BANQUET

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Dec. 16.—President McKinley reached here from Atlanta this morning and this forenoon delivered a notable address before the students of Booker T. Washington's normal school for colored people. He warmly praised Prof. Washington for his great work among the people of his race and urged the students to push on to honorable careers. Governor Johnston introduced the president. Speeches were also made by Gen. Wheeler and Prof. Washington.

President McKinley, in his response to the toast "Our Country," at the Kimball house banquet, Atlanta, last night, said of fraternal feeling: "The nation has been at war, not within its own shores but with foreign power, and the war was waged not for revenge or aggrandizement, but for our suppressed neighbors, for their freedom and amelioration. It was short, but decisive. It recorded a succession of significant victories on land and sea. It gave new honors to American arms. It has brought new problems to the republic, whose solution will tax the genius of our people. United we will meet and solve them with honor to ourselves and to the lasting benefit of all concerned. The war brought us together, its settlement will keep us together, reunited a glorious realization. It expresses the thought of my mind and the long deferred consummation of my heart's desire as I stand in this presence. It interprets the heroic demonstration here witnessed and is the patriotic refrain of all sections and of all lovers of the republic. Reunited, one country again and one country forever. Reunited I from press and pulpit. Teach it in schools. Write it across skies. The world sees and feels it. It cheers every heart, north and south, and brightens the life of every American home. Let nothing ever strain it again. At peace with all the world and with each other, what can stand in the pathway of our progress and prosperity?"

DEATH WARRANT ISSUED

For Execution of Bob Banks at Mayfield in February.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 16.—The governor has fixed Thursday, February 23, 1899, as the date of the execution of Bob H. Banks, of Mayfield, and issued the death warrant to the sheriff of Graves county to take the condemned negro from the Louisville jail to that place for the execution.

The Pella as Pilots.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of the 14th in its river news mentioned Oscar Jolly, a popular Cincinnati and New Orleans pilot celebrating his birthday, and the notice spoke of the Jollys' all being pilots and related to the unusual number of them, there being six pilots in the family. This prompts us to compare, as Paducah can boast it by several, by referring to the Bell family, there being ten pilots all raised in this city, named respectively: Capt. Chas. Bell, Sr., Capt. Chas. Bell, Jr., Capt. Wm. Bell, Capt. Louis Bell, Capt. Allen Bell, Capt. James Bell, Sr., Capt. James Bell, Jr., Capt. "Cuff" Bell, Newton Bell, Capt. Ed Bell.

Cross-Wise Swearing.

Sam George, colored, was charged in the police court today with using insulting language towards Susan Cook. She swore to him, and he swore he didn't. The court viewed George before he testified that if he swore falsely he would be arrested for perjury, and the case was left open for additional testimony.

REMITTED THE FINE.

A Reputable Man Arrested For Aiding a Friend.

An interesting case in the police court was that against H. J. Wallace, a respected resident of Ballard county, charged with robbing officer Bob Herring. Last night Officers Gurnie and Herring were told that several countrymen were drinking, and were likely to be robbed by a negro following them. The officers found the men just as one of them, Frank Youngblood, fell into the gutter. The friends tried to get him up, but the officers were on the lookout, and got there first. They arrested Youngblood, and when Wallace and others went to take charge of him, Officer Gurnie punched him in the stomach with his club, and told the other officer to take charge of him. Wallace pulled back and was tipped on the head by the other officer.

Youngblood was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness, and Wallace $1 and costs for resisting an officer. Judge Sanders stated that he had information from some of the best merchants in the city that Wallace is one of the best known and most reliable citizens of Ballard, and the entire affair seems to have resulted from a mutual misunderstanding. After court, at the instance of Marshal Collins and Prosecuting Attorney Wheeler Campbell, the fine was remitted against Wallace, both officers agreeing that he had no intention of robbing the officers, as he did not know at the time that they were officers.

ELI PERKINS HERE

Stopped Long Enough to Tell a Few Things.

A SHORT STORY ON A SOLDIER

Also What His Little Girl Said to Judge Van Wyck.

HE WENT ON TO MAYFIELD

Mr. Melville D. Landon, better known as "Eli Perkins," one of the best known humorists on the American stage, was in the city this forenoon, a guest at the Palmer. Mr. Perkins is an old newspaper man, having been on some of the largest papers in the United States. He was on his way to Mayfield, where he lectures tonight, Morgantown Saturday and Louisville Sunday night. When asked if he had seen anything funny in Kentucky he said: "Yes, I came down from Louisville yesterday with a Kenue soldier who had been in Cuba. When I asked him if he learned anything new there he said: 'Why yes, I learned that a Kentucky boy could be in two places at once.'"

"Two places at once?" I said.

"Yes sir, I was fighting in Cuba and home sick."

He told this one on his little girl: One day Judge Van Wyck called at the house and Ethel went to the door.

"Are your father and mother in?" asked the Judge.

"Yes, they are in," said Ethel. "Are they engaged?"

"Engaged," said Ethel, her great eyes opening wide. "Why they are married."

He left for Mayfield at 2:10 this afternoon.

MURDEROUS CHINESE.

Washington officials have not yet been able to ascertain the number of Spanish prisoners held by the Filipinos, but estimate it at 3,000. Madrid's estimate is 10,000.

For the Library.

The pupils of St. Mary's academy are giving an entertainment this afternoon at the school building, on North Fifth street, for the library fund.

A Red Cross nurse, just returned from Manila, says that scores of American soldiers are "dying in the hospitals at Manila, just for want of proper nourishment."

OHIO RIVER IMPROVEMENTS

Argument Before the River and Harbor Committee.

$100,000 HAS BEEN ASKED FOR

Was Said to Be "Nothing" But Creek Straightening.

IT IS SEVERELY CRITICISED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Col. J. L. Vance, chairman of the Ohio river improvement committee, made a strong argument before the river and harbor committee in favor of an appropriation of $100,000 for a preliminary survey of the Ohio river from Marietta to Cairo. If the improvements contemplated should be made, it would be the largest ever attempted on inland rivers.

A late member of the committee referred to the work contemptuously as a matter of "creek straightening."

"All right," said the middle west man. Mr. Burton, as chairman of the river and harbor committee, may want to fix it so that the lakes can get all the money they want. New York is trying to ravish the committee for $5,000,000 for a 35-foot channel from the battery to the sea. If these interests expect attention from inland congressmen, we will see that they treat our creek straightening job with proper respect."

HANNA BRIBERY CHARGE

Disavowed by the Senate and Then Referred.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The senate today discussed the bribery charge preferred against Mr. Hanna by the Ohio legislature, and referred the matter to a sub-committee.

CLAIM OF BRIBERY

Startling Testimony in the Collins Murder Trial.

A Witness for the Defense Testified Falsely.

BLACK EYE FOR THE DEFENSE

TOEPRKA, Kan., Dec. 16.—Ella Buchanan, the negro girl, one of the main props of the defense in the John Henry Collins murder trial, who swore Tuesday that she saw a man climbing over a shed roof out of an upstairs window of the Collins home, just after the murder, confessed this morning to the judge and jury in open court, that her testimony was false in every particular, and that she had been bribed to commit perjury. The confession seems to have shattered the whole plan and theory of the defense.

The prisoner, Collins, took the witness stand this morning, greatly to the surprise of the prosecution and the spectators. While he told his story he remained perfectly cool, speaking in a low, musical voice and without hesitation. He claimed that on account of financial embarrassment he gave Johnson Jordan and Jess Harper money with which to gamble, believing that the winnings would be sufficient to relieve his condition. His watch and his diamond went the same way. The authorship of the damaging letters was admitted by Collins and he explained that they referred to gambling arrangements.

GRAND JURY AFTER THEM

Some Sensations to Be Sifted By Them.

The grand jury has about finished its investigation of jail cases, and has begun the investigation of outside cases. Many sensational matters will be sifted to the bottom, and many witnesses have been summoned to appear before the grand jury. One witness came near getting into trouble. He did not want to tell what he knew, and the jury sent for him and asked him to change his statement and avoid trouble. The young man did so.

The questionable resorts in the city will all receive attention from that body. Some of the sports will likely make themselves scarce until after the jury adjourns, now that the body has time to devote to them.

The grand jury this morning made the following report of indictments: Mollie Nier, Mollie Green, Fannie Hart, Vic Holloway, Ida French, Maud Bell, Florence Patton, Earl Wilson, and Annie Cox, keeping bawdy houses; Fannie Hart, selling liquor without a license; Dave Johnson and George Dennis, grand larceny. The case against Will Childers, for obtaining supper by false pretenses, was dismissed.

ICE SOFTENING UP.

Navigation Will Start Up Again on Monday.

Navigation is practically suspended on the Ohio from one end to the other, but it will be resumed Monday, unless there is a cold wave of unexpected proportions started. Yesterday all the boats moving on it were hunting for harbors, but the ice is now softening up, and by Monday will not be dangerous to the craft. The ice was never thick, but was hard, and fortunately formed no blockade.

WILL HODGE ACQUITTED.

The Shooting of Will Smith Was Accidental.

The case against Will Hodge, colored, charged with maliciously shooting Will Smith, was tried in the police court this morning, the evidence showing that Smith was shot accidentally. He has been in the hospital since November 8. He was shot at the barber shop, 110 Broadway, and Hodge claimed that the pistol was handed him by another man, and went off accidentally. The two men had been good friends for two years, and no trouble of any kind had ever taken place between them. Hodge was acquitted, and was asked by the court to ascertain the name of the man who gave him the pistol, as he had it concealed, and the court desired to prosecute him.

COAL FOR THE POOR.

Bernheim Brothers Sent Their Usual Donation.

An order was today received from Bernheim Bros., Louisville, by the Central Coal and Iron company, for 1,500 bushels of coal, to be given to the poor of the city.

The coal is at the disposal of the mayor, who will assign a portion of it to the New Howards, and will distribute the remainder as he sees best. Bernheim Bros., for several years have about Christmas sent from one to two thousand bushels of coal to the poor of Paducah, and this year they sent 600 bushels more than last.

THE TERMS OF PEACE

Substance of the 17 Articles of the Agreement.

NO COMMERCIAL ARRANGEMENT

This Feature Will Come Along in Time.

THE TREATY AS IT STANDS

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Notwithstanding the attempts to keep the contents of the peace treaty entirely secret, the following is known to be the substance of the 17 articles of the agreement:

Article 1 provides for the termination of Cuba.

Article 2 provides for the cessation of hostilities.

Article 3 provides for the cessation of the Philippines for $20,000,000 as compensation.

Article 4 embraces the plans for the cession of the Philippines, including the return of Spanish prisoners in the hands of the Tagalos.

Article 5 deals with the cession of barracks, war materials, arms, stores, buildings and all property pertaining to the Spanish administration in the Philippines.

Article 6 is a reconciliation by both nations of their respective claims against each other and the citizens of each other.

Article 7 grants to Spanish trade and shipping in the Philippines the same treatment as American trade and shipping for a period of ten years.

Article 8 provides for the release of all prisoners of war held by Spain and of all prisoners held by her for political offenses committed in the colonies acquired by the United States.

Article 9 guarantees the legal rights of Spaniards remaining in Cuba.

Article 10 establishes the religious freedom of the Philippines and guarantees to all churches equal rights.

Article 11 provides for the composition of courts and other tribunals in Porto Rico and Cuba.

Article 12 provides for the administration of justice in Porto Rico and Cuba.

Article 13 provides for the continuance for five years of Spanish copyrights in the ceded territories, giving Spanish books admittance free of duty.

Article 14 provides for the establishment of consulates by Spain in the ceded territories.

Article 15 grants to Spanish commerce in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines the same treatment as to American for ten years. Spanish shipping to be treated as coasting vessels.

Article 16 stipulates that the obligations of the United States to Spanish citizens and property in Cuba shall terminate with the withdrawal of the United States authorities from the island.

Article 17 provides that the treaty must be ratified within six months from the date of signing by the respective governments in order to be binding.

For some time to come the United States and Spain must get along without any treaty to regulate commerce between the two countries. An effort was made to secure an arrangement with the Spanish commissioners looking to the revival of the old treaties until they could be replaced by others, but this having failed, no negotiations for new commercial treaties will be undertaken before ratification of the peace treaty.

Interesting Meeting.

The Elks met last night and artistically adjusted the horns on the head of Mr. Will E. Grigsby, the well known young insurance man. There are several others to be initiated at the next meeting.

The Elks are growing rapidly, and if the local lodge continues to increase at its present rate will soon be as large as Louisville lodge.

Slender Suit Filed.

A slender suit growing out of a neighboring quarrel over pigs was filed late yesterday afternoon in the circuit court. The plaintiff is C. W. Bream and the defendants W. R. Jones and wife, of the Clark's river section. The woman in the case is alleged to have called the plaintiff a "hog thief," "a sheep thief," and to have alleged that he had been in the penitentiary. He asks damages in the sum of $10,000.

Ordered to Leave.

Thomas Adams, a white tramp who had been very annoying about the city hogging, was charged in the police court today with vagrancy. He said he came from Christian county, Ill., arriving yesterday. The officers knew that he came here several days ago. He was told by the court to get out of town as soon as possible. He went.

FRIDAY, DEC. 10, 1908.

Having contributed a share to the maw of the police court fee machine, The Sun is entitled to say something about that system of grab.

The house passed the pension bill in 20 minutes. Think of that. And no spread speeches, either. In truth the bloody short days are over.

A large number of democratic papers of the state are still undecided whether the Louisville Courier-Journal's attention to Col. Castleman are honorable.

Senator Vest is inclined to begin with the expansion end of the United States and reform everything doing to the narrow limits of Col. Bryan's military lockjaw.

The worries of the average woman are just now divided between what she is going to get for her husband for Christmas and what he is going to get for her.

Through The Sun Paducah's merchants tell the people that there is no need of sending away for Christmas gifts. Everything that anybody ought to have can be had here.

According to the terms of Paducah's police court law, the man who defends himself from an assault is expected to pay a fine and accompany it with a vote of thanks for being alive.

What is the name of the councilman who missed that snug sum of $10,000 by reason of the bond deal falling through? This charge has been made by the News. Let us have the proof.

If the law had not been changed by far seeing councilmen who knew their business, there would be no question as to who would be city printer. Unquestionably the council was afraid to risk it, and is still afraid to re-negotiate the old law.

The Sun is willing to count copies and will not throw dry paper on the press to run up the number as has been done by others.

The money spent on streets by the 1897 council left some good results, but we have the authority of the mayor himself in his famous report that no one can find the good effects of money expended by the council of 1898. Common report has it that every load of gravel put on the streets of Paducah has cost $3 each, when the expense should have been no more than 75 cents. We know that it is hardly that bad but it is bad enough.

Judge Sanders, of the police court, talked earnestly yesterday of the need for a law to hold editors responsible for all they may write and print about politicians and others. If Judge Sanders will take a dive through the libel laws of the state he will find there all he suggested and more too.

The Kentucky libel laws hold editors to account both criminally and civilly for every falsehood uttered about any man. He may be sent to jail and be mulcted for heavy monetary damages for one offense. The laws against murder, arson and attacks on women are by no means as severe as the statutes relating to libel. Every man mangled or misrepresented in print has ample legal recourse in Kentucky.

The preceding city council refunded bonds at 44 per cent, when the country was laboring under the greatest business depression in its history and when money on call was 5 and 6 per cent. In New York. The present council did manage to refund some at 44 per cent when business had been stimulated by prosperity and call money was 24 and 3 per cent. At the same time New York city floated bonds at 3 per cent, and reaped a premium of $4 per cent, making its rate 27-30 per cent., receiving at these figures fifteen times more bids than bonds. The Paducah council can hardly find boasting material in this little refund flourish of one-fourth of one per cent, especially when by one act of repudiation it made a damaging attack on the city's credit.

The securing of a brewery and a packing factory in as short a time after the establishment of the Commercial and Manufacturers' association and through the efforts of that organization argues well for the association and calls for the hearty support of every enterprising citizen. Merchants and all others interested in the progress and prosperity of Paducah and who by oversight have not yet identified themselves with this organization ought, to hesitate no longer about taking a hand in the energetic looking to the general welfare of the city. The duty should not devolve upon sixty men, to push the city when the benefits to all have been demonstrated so early in the life of the association. In addition to putting up their money, the present members have evidenced their interest and enthusiasm by attending meetings and devoting their time to the good of the club. The association should have 200 paying members in a pushing city of the size of Paducah. If you are not a member send in your name at once.

Mockery of Justice.
A deplorable feature of the injustice of the so-called courts of justice comes from St. Louis. It reminds the public that the bench of this country needs more attention from the public—the election of men of substantial character and with ideas above questionable influence or sentiment.

Catharine Campbell, an actress, stole table linen, dishes, silverware, etc., from a fashionable St. Louis hotel. The product of her penitence was found packed in her trunk. Some of the goods were wrapped and addressed to Miss Campbell's mother in Indianapolis. There will be no prosecution of Miss Campbell on the charge of stealing all these things. Pressure was brought to bear in certain quarters and the woman was released. Instead of affording a study of a criminal nature it has been turned a study in psychology. The theory of kleptomania has been advanced and neurologists have said that Miss Campbell's mind has been unbalanced by over work. Miss Campbell has had more than ordinary advantages. She possesses a superior education, and has had every luxury. Her income was $100 a week salary besides she owns valuable real estate in Indianapolis, where her home is.

Minnie Kline was a poor servant girl. She wore neither silks nor satins. She stole a diamond from her employer and was arrested, tried, and convicted and served a two years' sentence in the penitentiary at Jefferson City. This unfortunate and misguided girl came from a family of poor, but hardworking, and respectable Germans in Randolph county, Illinois. She went to St. Louis and was ignorant of its ways. She did an honest day's work for every cent she received. Her hands were red and rough. She was not educated and she spoke with a decided accent. In an unguarded moment she took a diamond from her mistress' collection. The law was vindicated. She had committed a simple theft—not continuously larceny as in the case of Miss Campbell.

This feature is not confined to the courts of St. Louis. We have the same favoritism and discrimination all around us. Until there is a change in the judiciary, laws will continue to be a mockery and mobs will have cause to exist.

Judge Parker, of Lexington, holds that when a borrowing stockholder of a building and loan association pleads usury against his association, or after a settlement with the association brings suit for usury paid, the association has the right to compel the borrower to pay his proper proportion of all the losses and expenses of the association while he remained a member of it, and that in cases of this kind the association had the right to deduct from payments on dues the proper proportion of its losses and expenses chargeable to the borrowing member before crediting these payments on dues upon his loan. In all purely mutual associations the result of this decision will be to wipe out the benefits of the plea of usury. It will be impossible for the borrowing stockholder, by his plea of usury, to put the whole losses and expenses upon the investors. There is often as much injustice done under the plea of usury imposed as by the usurer himself. This decision reaches a proper point.

Calvin S. Brice, who died yesterday, first gained national recognition by building a competing road with the Vanderbilt system from New York to Buffalo, as a speculative enterprise. He succeeded in unloading this property on the Vanderbilt system and retired from that contest a gainer by millions. Thereafter he entered Ohio politics and became conspicuous because of his powers of organization and great wealth. Although he had a residence in New York, he presumed on his birth in Ohio, and through influence that too often operate in legislatures not to their credit, he was elected United States senator from that state. But his was a dress parade election and he served but one term.

When the republican council went out, the city treasury had a balance of $11,657.52. The tax collector who had been kind enough to the incoming democratic administration to hold back his report then added in December and January some $30,000, making in all $41,657.52. In addition to this sum the new council was the beneficiary of the $6,000 back bank tax which had been tied up by litigation. With that good surplus the democratic administration ought to make a good showing, but it doesn't.

Narrowed down to facts it is found that all this noise in Chicago about a renewal of the street car franchises has not been created by reformers who have designs on saving tax payers and citizens from loggins, but is backed by schemers who have selfish plans of their own. The noisy professional reformer who thrives on local politics will not stand the search light of investigation.

Paducah needs more business houses. The absence of homes for new enterprises acts as a Chinese wall against the growth and prosperity of the city.

WOMAN UNDER HIS BED.

The Unexpected Discovery Made by a Lone Bachelor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Emil Marx, a lone bachelor, looked under his bed this morning and there found a woman, a professional burglar. Mr. Marx did not realize that he had a woman to deal with. So he armed himself with a stout club and exclaimed:

"Come out from there!" "I will," answered a shrill voice. "I will, if you don't hit me with that stick!"

Mr. Marx, much surprised, said he would not, and the burglar crawled out, feet first, looking very sheepish. Indeed, in her arms she still clasped a bundle of $34 worth of Mr. Marx's clothes. When afterwards her pockets were searched, 17 keys of all shapes and sizes, twisted wire and burglar's small implements were found in her pockets. The woman was Mrs. Pauline Unbekant.

OBSERVATIONS AT RANDOM

The Nerviest Man of the War and His Habits.

WORK OF COMMERCIAL CLUB

It Has Made a Most Promising Beginning.

LATE MYSTERY AT FULTON

"The nerviest man I saw during the war," said City Clerk Patterson yesterday, "was a man known to us as 'Og' Hoffman. He came from up near St. Sterling or Cynthia, and was the best shot on horseback I ever saw. He always carried a double-barreled shotgun and a horse-shooter, and always swore he would never be taken alive. He was a quiet, unassuming fellow, never had much to say, but in danger was perfectly fearless and desperate. I have often tried to find out something about him since the war, but could never ascertain what became of him. It may be we could never find out anything about him because we simply knew him as 'Og.' I wish I could find him, for I have always wanted to meet him again."

"The great trouble about locating your old friends in the army," continued the clerk, "is in not knowing their real names. There used to be a fellow in our regiment named 'Andy' Hancock. He was here with Forrest, and was one of my particular friends, and one day we were captured together by getting out of our horses. After the war he went to his old home near Frankfort, so I heard, but I could never find him. I have been to Frankfort several times, but I could never find any one who knew any such man. Judge Yeager tried to find one for me, but couldn't. One day while there I met an ex-herd and asked him about 'Andy' Hancock. He said he knew of no one in that county by that name, but when I told him that Hancock was with Forrest he said: 'I'll bet that's Ed Hancock, for he was with Forrest.'"

"It seems Ed Hancock lives near there, but I was going to leave in an hour or two and didn't have time to go out and see him. Next time I go to Frankfort, however, I shall certainly find out if it's my old comrade."

The Commercial and Manufacturers' Association has been organized just one month, and has located within that time a brewery, a canning factory and a wagon factory. This is a remarkable showing, and one that reflects great credit on the association, and augurs well for its success. It is true that months may elapse before another factory is secured, but on the other hand it may not be a week. The fact that it has done it, however, is conclusive evidence that it can do it again. At any rate, the association is one that has long been needed in Paducah, and had it existed before, there is no telling what might have been accomplished. It is an excellent auxiliary for furnishing information relative to the advantages of the city, and there is not a day that letters of inquiry, which may result in new industries being secured, and in other benefits to the city, are not received by the secretary.

Mr. Andy Well, Jr., the genial agent for Anheuser-Busch, has quite a curiosity at his home on Monroe street in the shape of an orange tree with fifteen pretty, and attracts a great deal of attention. He hopes to be able to pick the fruit for Christmas.

The Fulton mystery resulting from the discovery of the skeletonized remains of "Dot" Rowland, of Fort Smith, Arkansas, continues to keep the Fulton papers busy. The whole affair seems to have resolved itself into a case of death from exposure, or the unfortunate and depraved woman, who had not been heard from for six weeks previous to the gruesome finding of the body. She has good people at Logan, Ohio, but it seems to have become estranged from them on account of the life she had been leading. From girl to school teacher, then wife of a gambler, hospital nurse and suicide seems to be a sentimental summary of the trail woman's career.

Some people in Fulton believe that Dot was murdered in cold blood. Others feel confident that she suicided. Mrs. G. W. Burton, of that city, states that a few months ago a woman was at her house and stayed there a few days giving her name as Mrs. Jones, and hailing from near Frankfort. In a few days an elderly man giving his name as Wright and claiming to be a Methodist preacher from near Ft. Smith, Ark., came after her and they left, telling Mrs. Burton they were going to Ft. Smith to marry.

The theory of murder is discredited because of the absence of any known motive.

Cured of Blood Poison After Doctors Failed.

In 1912 a small pimple broke out on my leg. It began eating and in four months I was treated by a physician of Talladega county, Ala., where I lived. He relieved it for a short while. In six weeks it broke out again in both legs, also on my shoulder. Two small bones were taken out. It continued until 1915. In this time I had twelve different physicians. They told me the only remedy was amputation; that it could never be cured. For six months I could not walk a step. I went to Mineral Wells, Texas, spent $300; came home; went to Hot Springs, Ark., staid nine months—all failed to cure me. In 1917 came back to Birmingham, Ala., and was advised to write to you, which I did. You wrote me that H. B. H. would cure me. I bought ten bottles and before I had finished my fifth bottle my legs began to heal, and in less than two months I was sound and well. That has been nearly two years ago and no sign of its return yet. I have spent in cash over $400 and H. B. H. did the work that all the rest failed to do. I have traveled so much trying to get well that my cure is well known. Many doctors have treated me in the last seventeen years. All they did was to take what money I had, and did me no good. I am now a well man.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local" examinations by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures all diseases that come under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "white" or "yellow" discharge, and women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THE SOLDIERS UNDER FIRE

In the Very Vortex of the Cross Shooting.

WHISTLING OF THE BULLETS

Stirring Experience of a Newspaper Correspondent.

JAS. CREELMAN AT SANTIAGO

I sat down under a mango tree with the soldiers and jotted down some notes of my story. We were at that time in the very vortex of the cross-fire. The bark whirled from the trees by the Mauser bullets. The sound was like the sound of wild animals in agony. Presently Capt. Haskell, acting adjutant of the battalion to which company F belonged, came down to where I was, a fine, old, white-headed, clear-eyed veteran. I told him that I thought the fort could be taken without the loss of a life by a charge on the wrinkled side of the hill. He promptly accepted my offer to lead the way, and ordered company F and part of another company to follow. I stepped through the line of bushes, followed by Capt. Haskell and the troops, and started up the hill. The only weapon I had was a revolver in my belt, and I along the holster around to the back so that I should not be tempted to draw.

The troops came on slowly, and when I found myself actually out on the clear, escarpment leading up to the trench, where even a mouse could not hide itself, I walked fast. I could see the lines of soldiers on all sides watching the ascent. Gradually I got away from our line, so that by the time I was within 50 feet of the barbed wire fence I was at least 200 feet ahead of Capt. Haskell and his men. I was absolutely alone. I stopped for a moment and examined the fort and trench, only a few feet from me, and when I stood there I could hear my heart beating like a hammer on an anvil. Not a shot came from the trench or from the fort. I turned round, and making a dash for the trench, I dropped into it.

Indicated to Capt. Haskell that I wanted men with barbed wire cutters. He hurried forward two gallant fellows, who without a word obeyed my signals and cut the fence down. It took but a few seconds to do this, and I stepped through the fence and walked up to the trench, standing on the edge and looking into it. The trench was filled with dead and dying men. Those who were unhurt were crouching down waiting for the end. I made a signal to one of the privates and he came to me with a rifle and ordered the Spaniards, who had not even looked at me, to stand up and surrender. They leaped up at once and dropped their rifles. I must say I was a little of the glory out of my work when I saw how pleased they looked to get through with the matter so easily.

—James Creelman, in Review of Reviews.

CONDEMN THE BAGPIPES.

A Jury Composed of Germans Declares the Instrument Is Not a Musical One.

Bagpipes are not to be classed as musical instruments, if the verdict of a jury of Germans has effect. It all grew out of the parade of a society of "Bravos," with kilts and plaid breeches, the pipes and a horse untrained to the skill of the piper. But it cost the piper a few dollars just the same. A Caledonian society set forth to celebrate. The members were kilts and at the head proudly strode a squad of pipers, who drummed musically upon their instruments. As the society progressed down the street a citizen of German parentage, unaccustomed to backing bronchos, was encountered astride of a steed. The steed objected to the pipes and the noise thereof, and bucked the German into the front window of a place of business.

Who had been thrown promptly into his action of denegance. He declared upon oath that but for the skillful of the piper he would have been killed by his steed. The case was laid against the entire society and the members made a valiant defense. But their attorney was not as clannish as the Scots or the German and he overlooked a bet. The jury was made up wholly of Germans.

The evidence was heard but that all of the jurymen should know what the instrument complained of was, the German equivalent was called into requisition. This is the "Budelacke." The evidence was all produced showing the society was marching in regular order, but that it was preceded by a squad of "Budelackes." That settled it. The German jury decided that this is a musical instrument and fined the society. —Chicago Chronicle.

A POPULAR MISTAKE

Regarding Remedies for Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

The national disease of Americans is indigestion or in its chronic form, dyspepsia, and for a very reason; that it is so common many people neglect taking proper treatment for what they consider trifling stomach trouble, when as a matter of fact, indigestion lays the foundation for many incurable diseases. No person with a vigorous, healthy stomach will fall a victim to consumption. Many kidney diseases and heart troubles date their beginning from poor digestion; thin, nervous people are really so because their stomachs are out of gear; weary, languid, faded out women owe their condition to imperfect indigestion.

When nearly every person you meet is afflicted with weak digestion it is not surprising that nearly every secret patent medicine on the market claims to be a cure for dyspepsia, as well as a score of other troubles.

When in fact, as Dr. Worthier says, there is but one genuine dyspepsia cure which is perfectly safe and reliable, and moreover, this remedy is not a patent medicine, but is a scientific combination of pure pepsin (free from animal matter), vegetable essences, fruit salt and bismuth. It is sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No extravagant claims are made for them, but for indigestion or any stomach trouble Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are far ahead of any remedy yet discovered. They act on the food eaten, no dieting is necessary, simply eat all the food wholesome you want and these tablets will digest it. A cure results, because all the stomach needs is a rest, which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give by doing the work of digestion.

Druggists sell these tablets at 50c. per package.

COLORED PEOPLE.

In the various thoughts of joy and pleasure occasioned by the merriment of the coming holiday season we should not forget that a deed of charity to the poor just at this season would reflect more of the spirit of Christianity, a spirit that should permeate the souls of all at this time, than all the circumscribed and selfish pleasure when the destitute and the poor are suffering on the outside and in the cold. There are a great many suffering and destitute among the colored people in the city that should not be overlooked or forgotten.

The pathetic scene of a young girl driven to desperation by poverty and neglect, such as recently took place here might have been spared the public had any general knowledge existed of such conditions. Let those upon whose hearts burn the fire of Christian charity, inaugurate a movement to do something for the destitute during these Christmas times.

Mr. Frank Logan, regimental postmaster of the Tenth United States cavalry, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon over the N. C. & St. L.

Will Hughes writes to the Sun as follows: "I regret very much, on account of the serious illness of my wife at the present time, that certain members of a certain lodge have circulated the report that I do not keep sufficient fuel in my home to make it comfortable and that they have used this as an excuse for breaking the oath and obligations to their order. The report is false; and was simply constructed to justify a non-performance of duty."

Grand carnival of national characters, introducing Uncle Sam, Commodore Hobson, members of the Tenth United States cavalry, and a number of other comical characters all on skates at the rink in the near future.

Mrs. Annie Cunningham, of North Seventh street, has returned from a short visit to Tennessee accompanied by her grandson.

The comedy company of Ashford, Marshall and Harris, is preparing to make a visit to Princeton in the near future. They have gone to no small amount of expense and trouble in procuring appropriate costumes.

Mrs. Ella Southernham left last night for Indianapolis, Ind.

John Hawley has attracted a good deal of attention on account of the amount of work he can do with our arm.

The skating rink at Odd Fellows hall is drawing large crowds every night and afternoon. The managers take great pains in having the best of order. We are glad to know that there is some amusement for our young men and ladies besides going to dances all the time.

CYCLE PISTOL A SUCCESS

Tried It On a Dog With Startling Results

WAS LOADED WITH HOT STUFF

It Was Easy Enough to Work Out the System.

A GOOD THING FOR FOOLS

Hobbs lately expressed to a friend his mortal fear of being held up on the street, his home burglarized and divers other calamities which as yet exist only in his imagination or among those of whom he heard only through the newspaper.

"Why don't you carry a cycle pistol?" said a friend, "and then you'll be ready for those fellows."

"A cycle pistol? What on earth is a cycle pistol?"

"Why, don't you know? A cycle pistol is a regular little gun, looks just like a revolver at first glance, but it isn't one. It has just one barrel and the thing is loaded with ammonia and a lot of other hot stuff. You pull the trigger, squeeze the handle and off you are. Cycles use them only in case of close will make a dog change its subject of its canine quickness. It's a great thing, that cycle pistol. And it's just as good for burglars and hold-ups as it is for dogs. The beauty of it is it don't kill 'em, you know, just interests 'em, so to speak, till they forget what they came for. Just try it once."

Mr. Hobbs was delighted and decided to act on his friend's suggestion and "try it once." He bought one the very next day.

"Isn't it a beauty?" he said to his wife. "Now, I'm going to see how the thing works," and with malice aforethought he pointed the weapon straight at the household dog as he lay stretched out on a rug before the grate.

But the thing would not work. In vain he pulled the trigger and squeezed the handle, the thing stoutly refused to go off.

"Surely, there's something in the barrel," said the ten-year-old hopeful.

Sure enough, there might be something in the barrel. There was. It came out suddenly just as Hobbs closed on eye and commenced looking down the barrel of the pistol with the other, forgetting to relax his grip on the trigger and the elastic handle. The "hot stuff" hit Hobbs full in the face, fairly taking his breath, making him believe his eyes were surely put out, and causing him to dance with pain and yell like a Comanche Indian.

When Hobbs was able to be out he told his friends that he was prepared to testify as to the wonderful efficacy of the cycle pistol. That a single trial had convinced him it was just as good for fools as for burglars and hold-ups. —Chicago Chronicle.

The "P" and "Y."

By a rule of our academy y is changed to i whenever -es or -ed is added to a word ending in y after a consonant, but no change is made when -s or -ed is added to a word ending in y after a vowel. Familiar examples, besides money, are bay, key, toy, buy, ely, attorney, chimney, donkey, journey, kidney, pulley, valley. Nothing can be said against the change of y to i, seeing that in earlier times there was scarcely any distinction between the two vowels; but there is something suspicious in the thought of changing the combination y to i when we would add -ed and -s to "hundred" and "thousand" are. In these days, oddities reminiscent, like "hundred," "thousand," etc., only with "ignorance"—notes and queries.
